How to get here

The Bangkok Mass Transit System, or BTS, also call the Skytrain, is an elevated rapid transit system in Bangkok, Thailand.

The Siam Station and National Stadium Station are relatively close to the university. Once you arrive at the station, there are university shuttle buses that will take you to the campus.

The Bangkok Mass Transit Authority, also known as BMTA, is the main operator of public transit buses within Bangkok area. It is the largest city bus system in Thailand. The BMTA offers bus routes throughout the city and its suburban provinces.

There are a number of public buses that stop at the university on four roads surrounding the campus.

Rama I Road : Bus Numbers 11, 25, 54, 73, 79 and 204

Rama IV Road : Bus Numbers: 21, 34, 40, 47, 50, 67, 93 and 141

Phayathai Road : Bus Numbers 29, 36, 36, 501 and 542

Henry Dunant Road : Bus Numbers 16, 21 and 14

The Metropolitan Rapid Transit, or MRT, is a rapid transit system serving the Bangkok Metropolitan Area in Thailand.

The Sam Yan Station is right next to the university. Just leave through Exit 2 below Chamchuri Square, which is one of the university buildings where you can begin your visit. From here, you can walk, board a bus or hire a taxi to go to a specific building or faculty on the university campus.

The Airport Rail Link from the lower level of the Suvarnabhumi International Airport to Phayathai Station which interchanges with BTS Sky train.

Tips for Taking a Taxi in Bangkok

Turn left, turn right, and stop here are words that will definitely come in handy, don't forget to add the polite particle khrap if you are a man and ka if you are a woman.

“ leow sai = turn left leow kwaa = turn right ”
jort tee nee = stop here
